Mitchell wanted a judgment for $1,000 damages because he said a contract he had to supply material for a book had been cancelled on account of the publication by Dick & Fitzgerald. He also wanted all the profits the publishers had secured from the sale of the book. The defendants entered the plea that they had bought the plates for the book from Street & Smith, of 25-31 Kose street, and that they had been duly conyrighted by the latter.

Judge Gildersleeve denied the motion on the ground that the United States copyright protected Dick & Fitzgerald, and no injunction could be obtained against them until Mitchell, in the regular way, had the copyright extended and declered invalid by the proper authorities.

Peter Breen and William Doberts Held for Trint.

Brennan, bartender in Steedman's liquor store, at Twenty-second street and Second avenue.

As Policeman Burns, of the East Twenty-second street station, was patrolling Second avenue at 7,30 celock this morning he heard cries of "Police" and "Murder". He found a crowd in front of Steedman's saloon surrounding the bartender, who was bleeding from an urily gash on the right side of his head. He said that he had been assaulted with a stone matchbox by Dosherty, and that Breen had attempted to use a knife on him. The trouble arose when Brennan tried to eject the prisoners from the saloon.

Breen and Doberty fiel before the officer appeared on the scene. They were caught trying to start a fight in the saloon at Twenty-first street and First avenue and arrested. Justice Voorhis committed them for trial.

tigating Excise Accounts.

Steal $19,400.

The Aldermanic committee, of Brook old administration, met to-day in the City Hall and began an inquiry into the business methods of the old Excise Board, under whose regime it was possible for ex-Cashier William D. Lohman to systematically steal amounts aggregating $19,400. Aldermne Haubert, Hesse and Clark were present, the latter presiding. Po-liceman Charles H. Tilden, of the Central Office squad, was the first witness called. He produced books of the Department kept by ex-Secretary Short, Michael Clark and Application Clerk Misore.

Chief Acountant Brown, of the Board of Audit, testified to having made an examination of ex-Cashier Lohmann's accounts after his secret departure to Canada. He found a deficit of $19,400.

Col. Brown said it was the custom of the Excise Commissioners to sign licenses and hand them to Lohman, who allowed them to accumulate. A batch of signed licenses were produced in evidence.

signed licenses were produced in evidence.

Col. Brown said that between December. ISS, and February, ISS, Lobman failed to account for 201 first-class licenses at $50 each, and two third-class at $50 each,

This made a deficit of $20,950, but subsequently a check was found in the safe which reduced the amount to $19,4000. Col. Brown recommended that the present cashier be compelled to keep a petty cash account and to enter up each license as it was issued.

Young Lewis says his left leg was broken and his right foot badly crushed. His right ankle was also sprained by being caught between the wason and the iron rupport. He charges carelessness on the part of the Company's employees.

BIG GOLD SHIPMENTS.

To-Morrow's Steamers Will Carry Out $2,000,000.

There is no let-up in the export move ment of gold, and as the Sub-Treasury here is suplying the demands of ship-pers, the Treasury reserve is steadily dwindling down to the $90,000,000 mark.
This is the only feature of the movement that excites attention, as it revives discussion about the possibility of Another Government loan.

Had the drain to Europe come at a time when the home demand for money was large, the effect in Wall street would have been decidely unfavorable, but, as the local market is glutted with funds, the financial community concerns their market in the Townserns.

but, as the local market is glutted with funds, the financial community concerns itself mainly with the Treasury matter just alluded to.

The engagements thus far reported for to-morrow's steamers follow: Lazard Frees, $1,200,009; Heidelbach, lekelheimer & Co., $700,009; ladenburg, Thaiman & Co., $500,009, and Hoskier, Wood & Co., $500,000, and Hoskier, Wood & Co., $500,000, atotal of $2,500,000. Some bankers profess to believe that the foreign demand is about satisfied, but there is more or less conjecture about this, and everything depends upon the amount of bills that will be made against shipments of produce or securities during the next couple of weeks.

Recorder was looking over his minutes of Snyder's testimony, Mr. Wellman, leaning on the rail before the jury-box, made some comment on the documents to the jury.

Mr. Brooke rebuked him. A tilt followed in which Mr. Brooke said, indignantly:

"You are the most unfair man that I ever tried a case with, Mr. Wellman; you know that you have no right to comment before the jury."

Mr. Brooke asked the witness to look at the documents and tell by what point he had identified them.

"Hy the name Gustav Brandt," replied the muddled witness, helplessly.

Mr. Brooke went at Snyder with energy. He got Snyder to say he identified the papers by their colors. Of course, all these papers are allke in color. Then Snyder, when asked when he first saw the papers, said he never saw them before to-day. He was glad to get away.

"The people rest," said Mr. McIntyre at 11.40 o'clock.

"What! Aren't you going to call Coroner Schultze? He was one of your leading witnesses on the former trial, and I shall ask to have his testimony given on that trial read to the jury, asked Mr. Brooke, He claimed this as a right, and a discussion followed.

In the midst of the discussion of the subject by Mr. Burke, Mr. Wellman withdrew all objections to reading the testimony of the Coroner, and Recorder Smythe made haste to strike "all this talk" from the records. Then Mr. Wellman read D. Schultze's direct testimony, Mr. Burke following w... the cross-examination.

Mr. Brooke's desire to get the Coroner's testimony before the jury was to show that that official ordered the exhuming of Brandt's body at the instance of the Minual Life Insurance Company, not at the Instance of the New York District-Attorney, and that the begal authority to resurrect the body was obtained from District-Attorney Nicoll afterwards.

The defense claim that the bedy was exhumed illegality and that the pody was exhumed illegality and that the performance showed it was the Minual Life that everybody was working for, rather than for the Grand and the was the Mutual Life that eve it that official ordered the exhuming Brandt's body at the instance of the first instruction of the New York Distriction of the New York Distr
